

Nursing: A Concept-Based Approach to Learning by Pearson

When preparing nursing students for the medical floor, you can lean on Pearson.

We are the number one choice in concept-based learning for nurses.

Students and instructors have shared feedback supporting this position

We have once again leveraged our expertise to deliver you the newest edition of the award-winning series Nursing: A Concept-Based Approach to Learning.

The latest edition gives you everything you had before, like over nursing concepts and over 20 biophysical concepts, as well as over 150 exemplars and more than 500 clinical skills and more.

Including expanded coverage of medications, heightened emphasis on leading health indicators and new sections on communicating with patients, as well as the effects of COVID-19 on the nursing profession, patients and families. All delivered in one streamlined package.

Concepts are presented in a consistent framework with in-depth exemplars. The integrated three-volume series in print and eText links nursing concepts with skills, promoting retention and mastery and is reinforced throughout with MyLab Nursing.

Students are given concepts adapted to where they're at and the opportunity to apply their learning in practical scenarios to prepare them for the medical floor.

Our NCLEX-style cases of over 11,000 questions are auto-graded. Over 4000 questions reflect the structure, question types and scoring of the new Next Generation exam, and more cases are being added each semester.

Students have ample practice before taking the real exam and will save money as it's the most affordable package on the market.

In a typical two-year nursing program, students can incur costs of up to $2500 for books. Our concepts-based approach to learning solution costs much less and delivers more for the students.

And as an instructor, you'll benefit from resources to engage and track your students' progress. Tools like an assignment manager for creating homework, quizzes and media assignments, as well as Gradebook to review and manage results.

Our truly concepts-based approach provides the resources to deliver curriculum seamlessly and supports the learning journey of your students to ultimately reach the medical floor of their dreams.

Discover why Nursing: A Concept-Based Approach to Learning continues to be the number one program on the market, year after year.
